

Kelley Fox Wines Albariño 2024

This small bottling of Albariño is fun to produce, and I love it more each year. The fruit was whole cluster pressed after picking and spent its entire life in a small stainless tank. It has a pale, spun-gold transparency in the glass. It begins with a very pleasing oceanic freshness on the nose with delicious tropical fruits and subtle, creamy exotic floral components. All of this continues in the mouth, perfectly balanced by the acidity. A very refreshing wine. I wish I had a perfume of it.
